Let's Start!

She's a superstar!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use important information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Are there any superstars in your country?
- Who are they and why are they famous?

Can Do Statements

- I can describe people I admire.
- I can describe the quality of an object or a person.
- I can talk about how something happens or how someone behaves.

Let's Explore!

Sally blogs about superstars - must they be pioneering?

* "Pioneering" means to involve new ideas and methods.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Have you ever been to a concert? Who do you think is a superstar? Lady Gaga? Madonna? What are the components of a superstar? I've asked many people what they think the qualities of a superstar are.

Here are some words they have used to describe them: ambitious, hard-working, larger-than-life, pioneering, tough, smart, energetic, powerful, fun, goal-oriented and creative. Can you think of any other words?

I have mainly focused on creative superstars, but there are other kinds of superstars, too. What about sports stars? Or business tycoons? Politicians? Scientists? Have you ever considered that they, too, could be superstars? I think you have to work extremely hard, learn things fast and bravely pursue your dreams to become a superstar.

As the famous politician Winston Churchill once said, "Success is stumbling from failure to failure with no loss of enthusiasm." Write to me and tell me who your top ten superstars are and why. Let's see who is at the top of the list!

Let's Practice!

He is such a role model* for young sports players!

*A "role model" is someone others look up to; an example for younger, more inexperienced people.

Instructions: Read the text. Circle all the adjectives you can use to describe people you admire. Use the completed sentences to model a conversation to practice your pronunciation with your partner. Switch roles.

My favorite superstar is David Beckham! He is a larger-than-life, energetic, powerful soccer star. He has become the person people look to for fashion and lifestyle advice. He is creative and tough, in my opinion. I think he is a fantastic role model for young soccer players! I wish I could meet him!

Let's Practice!

If you want to become a superstar, you have to ...

Learning Points

The Present Perfect Tense vs. The Simple Past Tense

In order to make questions and negative statements in the Simple Past and the Present Perfect, we use the auxiliary verbs for every tense.

For the Simple Past, we use the auxiliary verb DID. We do not conjugate the principal verb when we use the auxiliary.

Example:

- Did you audition for the film?
- I didn't see the auditions.
- We didn't see the film. Did you see it? I didn't listen to the Oscar Awards winner. Did you listen to the speech?

For the Present Perfect, we use the auxiliary verb HAVE or HAS, depending on the person. The principal verb will always be in the Past Participle form (regular or irregular).

Example:

- Have you ever auditioned for a film?
- I haven't seen any auditions.
- I've never acted on a stage. Have you ever participated in a play? I haven't got involved in any project. Have you started any movie project?
